

A Court for King Cholera, published in Punch magazine in 1852. Punch was a magazine that criticised the government in a funny way.

Keywords: court = a street / royal palace cholera = a disease

1. How useful is this cartoon for someone studying the living conditions in England in Victorian Times?

Use the table below to help you answer the question and add a few more examples

| Useful  | Less useful  |
|--|---|
| ? It shows the terrible conditions that people lived in | ? It is a cartoon and the person may be exaggerating |

REMEMBER - ALL SOURCES ARE USEFUL IN SOME WAY AS THEY SHOW US ABOUT PEOPLE'S OPINIONS AND BELIEFS IN THE PAST

This cartoon is called 'A drop of London water'. It is another example of how cartoonists criticised the government in a funny way.

1. Write down what you think is in the cartoon.
2. How useful is this cartoon for someone studying the living conditions in England in Victorian Times?